ABSTRACT

This directory provides a guide to higher education institutions offering park and/or recreation classes and programs. The first section presents institutions, by state, with mailing addresses, department identification and chairs, telephone numbers, enrollment (1982-83 academic year), and available course options. Section 2 presents a listing of community colleges, by state, with the same information as in the first section. The third section is a compilation of institutions by degree programs (master's, directorate, or doctorate) offered. In the fourth section, institutions are listed by program options, including general recreation, general resource, commercial recreation, forest recreation, municipal recreation and parks, outdoor recreation, park and resource management, recreation administration, therapeutic recreation, and travel and tourism. PURPOSES OF THE AMERICAN ALLIANCE FOR HEALTH, PHYSICAL EDUCATION, RECREATION AND DANCE

The American Alliance is an educational organization, structured for the purposes of supporting, encouraging, and providing assistance to member groups and their personnel throughout the nation as they seek to initiate, develop, and conduct programs in health, leisure, and movement-related activities for the enrichment of human life.

Alliance objectives include:

1. Professional growth and development--to support, encourage, and provide guidance in the development and conduct of programs in health, leisure, and movement-related activities which are based on the needs, interests, and inherent capacities of the individual in today's society.

2. Communication--to facilitate public and professional understanding and appreciation of the importance and value of health, leisure, and movement-related activities as they contribute toward human well-being.

3. Research--to encourage and facilitate research which will enrich the depth and scope of health, leisure, and movement-related activities; and to disseminate the findings to the profession and other interested and concerned publics.

4. Standards and guidelines--to further the continuous development and evaluation of standards within the profession for personnel and programs in health, leisure, and movement-related activities.

5. Public affairs--to coordinate and administer a planned program of professional, public, and governmental relations that will improve education in areas of health, leisure, and movement-related activities.

6. To conduct such other activities as shall be approved by the Board of Governors and the Alliance Assembly, provided that the Alliance shall not engage in any activity which would be inconsistent with the status of an educational and charitable organization as defined in Section 501 (c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 or any successor provision thereto, and none of the said purposes shall at any time be deemed or construed to be purposes other than the public benefit purposes and objectives consistent with such educational and charitable status.

AALR DIRECTORY

INTRODUCTION

If organized understanding of "who is doing what" is any indication of growth and maturity of a profession the presence of accurate and updated directories may be an indicator. Currently there is concern that we know who and what status our collegial peers have during these times of cutback and retrenchment. This Directory is a fourth edition of sorts, the inaugural (1969) listing 203 institutions of higher education, with subsequent issues in 1973 with 315 schools and 1981 with nearly 500 schools. The 1969 and 1973 directories were jointly published by NRPA and AAHPERD, the 1981 by NRPA and this 1983 edition, sponsored by the AALR of AAHPERD.

Emphasis here has been placed on offering a directory which is as accurate and complete as possible. The mail questionnaire, previous correspondence to the national office and referrals from AALR district representatives provided the basis for the listings.

This publication would not have been possible without the generous assistance, technical help and computer support of the University of Utah, Department of Leisure Studies. Dr. Taylor Ellis is responsible for the compilation and computerization of the information contained in this manuscript and supervised the verification of four year schools through catalogue comparison and phone calls. Special thanks also go to Dr. Dale Cruse, Chair of the University of Utah for his consistent support throughout the project. The University of Oregon, Center of Leisure Studies, now the Institute of Recreation Research and Service (IR^2S) played a major role through the leadership of Dr. Larry Neal in both the 1973 and 1984 issues of the directory.

The publication was initiated in the spring of 1982. It is the third directory produced by AAHPERD/AALR of Curriculums in Parks and Recreation. The first and secondary directories in 1969 and 1973 were accomplished through the joint efforts of AAHPERD/AALR and NRPA. This publication updates the information available in previous directories.

The format for the directory has been maintained to provide a quick reference to institutions. The directory is divided into four sections: there are two listings, the first presents institutions by state with mailing addresses, department identification and chairs, phone numbers, population (1982/83 academic year), and available course options; the second presents a listing of the community colleges presented by state including mailing addresses, department identification, etc. The third section of the directory is a compilation of institutions by degree programs offered beginning with Masters, then Directorate and finally Doctorate. The fourth section presents institutions by options.

The purposes of the directory are threefold. First is to provide a telephone/mailing directory for professionals and second, to provide a guide to students and prospective students for education exploration in the area of parks and recreation. This is to provide a source of information for trends in changes in training emphasis, changes in where curricula are housed, and changes in student population (undergraduates/graduate).

A word of clarification: the information comes from the best source possible — people in the field. The information found here is as good as the willingness of colleagues to respond by phone or questionnaire. Regarding the "options/specializations/ emphasis areas" respondents were asked to answer according to the following definition:

> "a definitive area of study with several specialized courses complimenting a required core of general park/recreation classes."

Added to this directory are the categories "general recreation, general resource and general cultural arts" for those schools moving away from the proliferation of emphasis areas, offering a more general studies program. As in past directories of this type the compilers offer the following disclaimer — judgment of the quality of the programs listed is not a function of such a source since those programs listed here have not been evaluated, representatives were merely asked to respond to a brief questionnaire. A sense of quality is built in with the designation/recognition of those schools who are accreditated by the NRPA/AALR National Council of Accreditation. However, at this early date many qualified programs not so designated are currently considering accreditation. An update of such schools appears in the January issues of Parks and Recreation and AALReporter.

Thoughts as to how this resource can be even more helpful to you as a prospective student in this field, a student, practicing professional or faculty member are solicited. Please use the form in the back of the Directory or otherwise share suggestions with the Executive Director, AALR, 1900 Association Drive, Reston, Virginia, 22091.

TWO YEAR DEGREE PROGRAMS

The listing of Community of Junior Colleges has been separated in this directory for several reasons; among them include:

* Ease of finding this level of training.

* The nature of these programs--being on the "grass roots" community level with a regional commitment and corresponding mission statements. The Associate level program is often characterized by rapid changes in courses offered and the inclusion/exclusion of whole programs. It is for this reason that the AALR does not attempt to endorse, certify or in any way verify the following programs. They are listed for the convenience of those interested in writing or calling to find out the current status of the program.

* While there are many Junior or Community Colleges which have contacted the national office in the recent past-- we are confident that there are many more who are providing some leadership in this area. Many have not been identified with AALR, if you know of such programs please contact:

Executive Director, AALR
1900 Association Drive
Reston, VA 22091

A copy of the questionnaire appearing at the back of this directory can be filled out and mailed to Reston for inclusion in the next directory.

DEPARTMENT OF RECREATION AND LEISURE STUDIES

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION A Bachelor of Science degree in Recreation Administration with options in Recreation and Park Administration and in Therapeutic Recreation and a Master of Science degree in Recreation and Park Administration are offered.

The Recreation and Park Administration option focuses on the management of recreation services and environments that span the spectrum from urban to wilderness area recreation. Students learn to manage organizations and resources to facilitate the leisure experience of participants.

The Therapeutic Recreation option focuses on the provision of recreation services for people who are ill, disabled, or handicapped, and prepares students to be eligible for registration by the California Board of Park and Recreation Personnel as a Registered Recreation Therapist and by the National Council for Therapeutic Recreation Certification as a Therapeutic Recreation Specialist.

The Master of Science program is designed to prepare advanced students for major responsibilities in the management of diverse leisure service systems. An educational experience is planned to provide core competencies, as well as career competencies to support the professional objectives of students.

FEATURES The Sacramento area provides many resources for recreation and leisure study. Thirteen progressive special recreation and park districts maintain close liaison with the Department. The City of Sacramento is expanding its leisure services, and the County Parks and Recreation Department operates the American River Parkway, a prototype in recreation and leisure services. Numerous state and federal agencies direct leisure services and facilities from offices located in the Sacramento area. National and state associations for recreation and park professionals maintain offices in Sacramento. Both the recreational resources of the mountains and the ocean are within a 90-mile radius. Major facilities for therapeutic, commercial, and institutional recreation add to the number of work and study opportunities which enrich the educational program of the Department.

Program Emphases or Options:	Undergraduate students are prepared for mid-management roles in recreation in a variety of agencies by pursuing one of the following program options: program management, therapeutic recreation, outdoor recreation planning and management. Graduate students are prepared for roles as teaching and research scholars and for upper-level management positions. Master's degree students may specialize in the following options: recreation and park administration, therapeutic recreation, outdoor recreation and leisure behavior research. Doctoral students may specialize in the study of leisure behavior or the delivery of leisure services.
Research Division: Leisure Behavior Research Lab	This laboratory is the organized research unit of the Department and is located in the Institute for Child Behavior and Development. The primary research objectives are to acquire knowledge about: (a) leisure behavior from social-psychological and sociological perspectives, and (b) play and movement behavior of children and adults in leisure time activities. The laboratory also studies leisure of the handicapped and other special populations. Current research includes program-oriented projects sponsored by government agencies. The laboratory's faculty teach undergraduate and graduate research courses and advise master's and doctoral research projects.
Extension and Continuing Education Activities: Office of Recreation and Park Resources	This unit is operated in conjunction with the Cooperative Extension Service, College of Agriculture. The major purposes of the office are to assist Cooperative Extension Service in conducting educational programs to provide consultant services to governmental and private agencies that involve unique problems in recreation and parks; to strengthen teaching in the department, to provide a laboratory for carrying out sound recreation and park research programs, and to communicate research findings to the field.

Publications from NRPA

Directory of College/University Programs in Recreation, Leisure Services and Resources 1981
Compiled and edited by Donald D. Henkel
Published by NRPA

This publication culminates the efforts of NRPA to computerize all known park and recreation curricula in colleges and universities throughout the United States and Canada. Approximately 500 separate programs are listed as compared with the previous listings of 315 in 1973 and 203 in 1969. The Directory is divided into two major sections. Section I is the most comprehensive and presents institutions in alphabetical order by state and province, name of department chair and title, department name and address and phone numbers. The second section lists all institutions by options or areas of specializations. Degree levels are identified. 1981, 48 pp. Cost: $6.00

Recreation, Park and Open Space Standards and Guidelines
Published by NRPA

The long-awaited "Recreation, Park and Open Space Standards and Guidelines," the first update issued in more than a decade, has been published by the National Recreation and Park Association to help communities identify and design facilities and park lands needed to meet recreation demand.

The document, three years in preparation, gives community planners model step-by-step methods for urban and rural park and recreation planning.

It offers guidelines on space requirements, location and service radius for such recreation facilities as sports courts and arenas, archery ranges, trails, beach areas, swimming pools, running tracks and youth sports fields, among others. The guidelines also indicate the number of facilities needed based on population.

The Standards and Guidelines do not establish an absolute level of park or open space land mandated to serve specific population levels. Rather, the document establishes methods by which individual communities can adequately plan their own facilities and spaces. 1983, 136 pp. Cost: $25.00

AALR

The Leader in Leisure and Recreation...

The American Association for Leisure and Recreation (AALR) was formed in 1930 in response to growing public recognition of recreation as a fundamental human need. AALR's purpose is to develop and promote the organization of school, community and national leisure services and recreation education.

More than 7,000 student and professional members of AALR share a commitment to improve leisure lifestyles and recreational opportunities for all individuals. AALR provides you with the chance to help shape the leisure and recreation programs of our nation...while you shape your own professional future.

Serving Your Profession...

AALR

- Supports, encourages and provides guidance to members in the development and conduct of leisure services programs
- Encourages professional involvement and exchange
- Sponsors relevant programs at national and district conventions, workshops and conferences
- Aids in the development of quality recreation programs in schools
- Monitors recreation legislation and renders consultation at the request of legislators
- Provides opportunities for leadership and participation in committees, convention programs and special interest areas
- Disseminates information on topics of current interest in leisure and recreation
- Maintains liaisons with national and international organizations having similar concerns.

Helping You Grow as a Professional...

AALReporter

AALR's quarterly newspaper brings you scores of ideas and resources specifically relating to leisure and recreation including:

- job notices
- professional opportunities
- book reviews
- feature articles
- practical ideas for programming
- association news

The AALReporter welcomes member input, involvement and exchange.

Leisure Today

You receive two issues of Leisure Today each year. Each issue is coordinated by a different guest editor, who focuses on a current topic in leisure trends and offers a collection of perspectives from recognized experts. This special magazine is written for you, the professional in recreation, and comes to you as an insert in the Journal of Physical Education, Recreation and Dance.

Student Services

In addition to AAHPERDs Job Placement Service, AALR offers other attractive services to student members. A student representative is appointed to the AALR Board of Directors each year to ensure student input, and a section of the AALR Reporter is reserved for student exchange of ideas.

Information Referral Data Bank

AALR maintains an ever-growing referral file of information and organizations in the broad area of recreation and leisure services. If you need information, AALR will help you find it. AALR members also have access to AAHPERD's Unit of Programs for the Handicapped Information and Research Utilization Center in Physical Education and Recreation for the Handicapped.

Collegial Status

AALR members enjoy collegial status with the National Recreation and Park Association (NRPA) and the National Community Education Association (NCEA). AALR members are entitled to attend NRPA and NCEA conferences, conventions and workshops at member registration rates.

Professional Recognition

The AALR Awards recognize distinctive contributions in the fields of recreation and leisure. Specific awards focus on leadership, scholarship, and work with the handicapped.

Conventions and Conferences

National, state and local meetings give you the opportunity to meet your colleagues and hear outstanding speakers.
